For me, breast feeding isn't an option, so I feed my little one organic formula, as the second best option. At feeding time, I make sure her eyes meet mine to make feeding time bonding time too.

My first baby ended up being babies! I'm enjoying every second with my twins, even the sleepless ones!

I love tandem nursing my baby and toddler. They get to bond, learn to share, and receive valuable nourishment all at once!

Breast to Formula

I started Breastfeeding and with me being a working mom my production started to run low. I started supplementing with Earth's Best and my baby couldn't tell the differents. It was great way to reduce the stress for me and feel good that I was giving my baby something good for him too.

Why not give your child the very best? Why not help give them the healthiest start on life as possible? Why not start them out on the right path from the get go? First off BREAST FEED! There is so much your child gain from breast feeding compared to formula. Even if you don't make enough milk or need to start working again, some is better than none!

I don't make enough milk and I tried every trick I could find on the internet with still no luck. So then I got on the computer and researched infant formula for several days. Through trial and error, finally when Toady was 10 weeks we found Earth's Best Sensitive formula was it for him.

After having many issues with a low pumped supply of breast milk I am happy to know that there is a formula that I feel safe giving my baby when the need for supplementation arises.

All organic

Beginning with formula and now as we've moved into solid foods, we are all organic! Earth's best products are in line with what's important for our baby's nutrition and gives us great ideas for homemade all organic foods too!

When nursing for the first time, don't get discouraged. Stick to it and make sure you stay away from caffeine and eat healthy so your baby can get the most nutrition from your milk. Breast feeding is one of the best things you can do for your baby.

I have been exclusively breastfeeding my son and now that he is six months old, we are trying solids. So far he will only eat bananas but we are not giving up.
